LEADING YOUTH WORK ORGANISATIONS

Voluntary youth work organisations are key players supporting and developing young people across Scotland. Out of the covid-19 crisis, the sector still needs to be able to adapt in a changing environment to maintain services and support for young people.

Youth Scotland recognises the vital role that you and your organisations play and will play for the sector's future. On this programme you will work with peers from across Scotland to gain greater confidence and clarity to enable you to progress in your leadership journey.

This programme is delivered as a blend of in-person and online participative sessions and self-directed learning. You will work closely with your peers throughout and build a strong supportive network.
